We're looking at literacy and community economic development

Community Building. Community Enterprise. Workforce Development. These were the themes at the heart of Econous 2016, the national Community Economic Development Conference, that I attended in Montreal in May.

You may be wondering about the place of community economic development in literacy work...Read more

Dene languages conference next week

The Dene Languages Conference is the world's most important annual conference for the study of Dene (Athabaskan) languages, bringing together linguists, educators, language learners, and language activists from all parts of Denendeh and beyond. The conference is June 6 and 7 at the Explorer Hotel in Yellowknife.

June 10 is the deadline for literacy award nominations

Nominate an adult learner, a group, a youth or an educator for an NWT literacy award. The 2016 Council of Federation Literacy Award will honour the achievements of an adult learner who has overcome obstacles and demonstrated outstanding progress in the pursuit of literacy skills in any of the NWT Official Languages. NWT Ministerial Awards recognize achievements in other categories.

Funding

Apply now for anti-poverty funding

June 17, 2016 is the deadline to apply to the GNWT Anti-Poverty Fund. Up to $500,000 will be allocated to initiatives aligned with the five pillars of the territorial Anti-Poverty Action Plan: Children and Family Support; Healthy Living and Reaching Our Potential; Safe and Affordable Housing; Sustainable Communities; and Integrated Continuum of Services.

Strategic Investments in Northern Economic Development

The Strategic Investments in Northern Economic Development funding program supports projects that increase northern economic growth and diversification, support innovation and capacity development, and create jobs for Indigenous and non-Indigenous Northerners. Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis.

News, Opinion and Research

FOXY starts spin-off sexual health and relationship workshops for young men

A sexual health program for young women in the NWT is expanding to include young men. FOXY, or Fostering Open eXpression among Youth, uses art to encourage young women to talk about their sexuality and relationships. Now an offshoot called SMASH, or Strength, Masculinities, and Sexual Health is taking off this summer in a pilot project for young men...Read more

Never Alone and the impact of digital Indigenous storytelling

Never Alone is a video game retelling a traditional Alaskan story in a rich, complex media. It was the subject of a recent panel discussion at the Indigenous Literary Studies Association Conference in Calgary. This author argues that Never Alone is an "opportunity for games to provide an impactful tool for Indigenous communities to reintegrate traditions and inspire disconnected youth"...Read more

What one district's data mining did for chronic absence

Chronic absence is defined as a student missing more than 10 percent of the school year - which works out to just two days a month. Research shows that such students are way more likely to fall behind and, eventually, drop out. Chronic absence is not just skipping school - it's more likely a mix of truancy entangled with illnesses and family problems...Read more
